Today a written threat was discovered in the girls' restroom at Roseburg High School. RHS administration and the school resource officer investigated the incident.

School staff members have identified the student responsible for making the threat and law enforcement has been involved. The school staff are also working to ensure the student in question is receiving counseling and appropriate supervision.

Yesterday's tragedy at a Florida school has made all of us even more mindful of the need for vigilance. We have no reason to believe there was an imminent threat. We are also asking parents to remind children and teens that making any kind of threat, even in jest, carries serious consequences.

All of us at RHS will continue to make student safety our top priority.
